2020 PAC Match Survey
Survey Overview & Methodology:

The Public Affairs Council conducts this survey every two years to identify common trends and practices of PAC practitioners administering charitable match programs. Survey questionnaires were completed only by PAC professionals who currently operate a PAC match program. The survey was conducted during September 2020 and circulated amongst the Council’s PAC community. In all, 23 organizations participated in the survey. This report provides a summary of answers to survey questions.
The Case for PAC Match

PAC charitable match allows a PAC’s connected organization to match all or a portion of an individual’s PAC contribution to a charitable entity. Organizations have the discretion to make a 1:1 match for all contributions, match only certain contributions or require a giving threshold before the match kicks in. As these survey results show, different PACs choose different structures that meet their internal culture, resources and needs. Regardless of the structure, neither the organization nor the individual receive a tax deduction for the charitable contribution.

The Public Affairs Council’s 2019 Corporate PAC Benchmarking Report found that PAC match was the single most effective PAC benefit offered by PACs to incentivize PAC contributions. Additionally, in the 2020 PAC Match Survey, majority of the respondents indicated that PAC match is an effective tool for raising PAC funds.

This report examines the administration, restrictions and disbursement procedures of PAC match programs. The report also shares the limitations and requirements by organizations for donors and charities to be eligible for this program. The Public Affairs Council has many resources and information on PAC match. For questions or additional resources please contact Tori Ellington at vellington@pac.org.

Q19: Do you think PAC match is an effective PAC benefit? Please briefly explain the impact your charitable match program has had on your overall PAC fundraising.

Responses received:

• Most definitely! PAC Match accounts for over 60% of overall fundraising
• Very good feedback during 2020 roll-out
• This is the biggest seller of the PAC
• The year it was introduced we increased membership by 300%
• Yes, I have had many members say they only joined the PAC because of the charitable match.
• In our internal PAC member/solicitables surveys, PAC match consistently ranks as the most appreciated incentive, and many members say they would contribute less or not contribute if PAC Match were not offered.
• Yes. It is an effective benefit. We solicit during the UW campaign and also do a PAC education season too. In a recent survey, PAC Match is the #1 listed benefit.
• Our people love PAC match. Years ago we used to give gifts and then they stopped that. It is the main benefit of giving to the PAC.
• Yes, helpful tool for recruiting and retention
• Yes, we need to communicate the program better but the feedback is positive.
Q19: Do you think PAC match is an effective PAC benefit? Please briefly explain the impact your charitable match program has had on your overall PAC fundraising.

Continued

Responses received:

• Yes, I believe the PAC match program is effective but the internal process at my company needs work. Took entirely too long to get checks out and to the charities.
• Yes, it is one of our most popular benefits and particularly with younger generations. In today's political climate, it makes talking about the PAC a little easier and that we engage in our communities by supporting candidates and giving to charities.
• Yes, I think it's an effective benefit, especially with a dollar-for-dollar match. We've seen an increase in PAC participation and receipts since having a PAC match program.
• Yes it is our only incentive and is a significant draw. People are very proud of their charitable match as it is part of our culture.
• Yes. Our PAC revenue is substantially larger because of the Charity Match program. I would guess that the program may increase annual receipts by up to a multiple of 2.
• Yes, especially during COVID
• It's a win/win benefit - raises money for the PAC and associate gets a match to a charity of their choice
• Yes- really helps us encourage lower-level PAC members to hit that minimum and "double their money"
Q20: If your PAC match program is less than five years old, please share the impact that adding this benefit has had on your PAC fundraising efforts. For example, if you have specific statistics on how your program grew with the addition of PAC match, please share.

Responses received:

- In the first year after launching PAC match, our PAC receipts increased to more than $1 million.
- Grows between 10-15% year over year
- Too new; no stats yet
- Two years ago we had 17 members today we 61 because of the match.
- We launched PAC Match when we launched our PAC 2.5 years ago, so I don't have a comparison to share.
- First year doing PAC match at company (just joined this year)
- It's hard to measure on the specific impact of PAC Match, but it is in the top 3 reasons for joining the PAC. We don't lead with PAC Match, because the PAC is about supporting candidates who support our company and at the same time we can give back. It fits nicely into our internal community engagement strategy and it was a great way to modernize our PAC benefits for the next generation of donors.
The Significance of PAC Match

As illustrated in this survey, PAC charitable match can be an effective tool for increasing overall contributions and participation in the PAC. In fact, PAC match has been reported as the most effective benefit for incentivizing PAC support in the Council’s 2019, 2017 and 2015 Corporate PAC Benchmarking Reports. It is important to note that PAC match is not always capable of vastly improving a PAC that conducts ineffective solicitations. PAC match is most successful when it complements an already successful program. When done in this manner and structured effectively, PAC match has the potential to increase participation significantly.

Thank you to all of the PAC administrators who participated in this survey!
