

Frequently Asked Questions and Sample Responses

What is a Political Action Committee (PAC)?

A PAC enables employees and eligible company employees to pool their political contributions and support candidates who will help the company achieve its legislative objectives.

Isn't the money just being used to buy politicians?

NO. PACs are simply groups of like-minded individuals who pool their resources to achieve a common goal. The contributions are allocated to candidates whose records indicate that they balance fairness with issues that coincide with our company's goals and pro-business agenda.

I thought PACs were going to be eliminated...?

NO. PACs continue to be supported in the political process because they are a legal, legitimate and open method of campaign finance. Even with the latest reform measures, PACs remained relatively unaffected and are being seen as the most viable source of contributions to candidates.

Why shouldn't I just support individual candidates and bypass the PAC?

With individual contributions, candidates may not know why you supported them. When a PAC makes a contribution, it sends a strong, collective message that contributors share the interests of their company. There is strength in numbers.

How are the PAC's contributions used by candidates? Why do they need our support?

The cost of running for public office has become increasingly expensive. PAC funds go toward many aspects of successful campaigning, including developing printed materials, purchasing advertising time and providing salaries for campaign staff.

Who is eligible to join a PAC? Who will be solicited?

In accordance with Federal law, eligible employees are defined as the company's executive and administrative personnel (and their immediate families) who are paid by salary, rather than an hourly basis. These individuals also have policymaking, managerial, professional or supervisory responsibilities.

Why should I join? Can't the company promote its own interests?

Our industry is in a time of rapid change. Your participation helps to get candidates elected that best support our company goals and business strategy. The company does promote its own interests through the governmental and regulatory departments, but due to federal regulations, cannot make political contributions. Combining our work at the federal, state and local levels with PAC contributions provides the best positioning for our company and its employees.

How do I join?

Public Affairs Council

Simply fill-out the enrollment card found in your PAC brochure and mail or fax it to the contact information shown on the back.

Is a PAC contribution tax deductible?

NO. Contributions to this, or any other PAC, are not tax deductible.

What candidates are supported by our PAC?

Our PAC is nonpartisan and supports both democrats and republicans. Your dollars help support candidates who are sensitive to the issues that affect our industry. Candidates to receive contributions from our PAC must demonstrate [insert items from candidate contribution criteria].

Other questions to consider include:

- How much money did we raise last cycle?
- What is the campaign goal?
- Who should I contact if I have specific questions?
- Can I recommend a candidate for a contribution?
- How does the size of our PAC compare to others' in our industry?
- How can I receive a list of candidates the PAC has contributed to?
- What do I get for contributing? (benefits)
- What is the maximum amount of money a PAC can give to a candidate?
- Who sees how much each person gives to the PAC? (include staff members and FEC disclosure information)